LOCATION

Located in the Chablais vaudois region, the commune of Ollon enjoys an ideal position between plain and mountains, close to Aigle, Villars-sur-Ollon and Lac Léman. Easily accessible by car via the A9 freeway (Aigle exit), it is less than an hour from Lausanne and Sion.

Ollon is well served by public transport, with a station on the regional Aigle - Sépey - Diablerets line, and several bus routes to surrounding villages and ski resorts. This accessibility, combined with an unspoilt natural setting, makes Ollon an attractive place to live or stay.

MUNICIPALITY

Situated in the Chablais vaudois region at an altitude of 478 meters, the village of Ollon and its 2800 inhabitants enjoy exceptional sunshine, which is one of the reasons for the village's reputation. The municipality is very extensive, stretching from the right bank of the Rhône at an altitude of 390 meters to the Chamossaire summit at 2112 meters.

Ollon is located ~10 kilometers from the Villars-Gryon ski resort, close to the Portes du Soleil ski area, comprising ~650km of pistes, one of the largest in Europe. During the summer months, long hikes are possible in the lush surrounding countryside, and numerous walks are organized in the vineyards, with tastings of the region's AOC wines.

Higher up are the lakes of Bretaye and Chavonne, with magnificent landscapes to discover. The village of Ollon is located ~3 km from the St-Triphon freeway entrance and ~5 km from the A9 freeway entrance at Aigle. It is served by TPC and CFF via the railway station in its center.
